

BIOS

Isis Mancil -- Founder / President / Executive Director

Isis Mancil has stayed true to her pledge in her college personal statement, "To Save the Children" after many years of volunteering and employment at numerous nonprofits that fight to end the death penalty and domestic violence, educate voters and youth, and rehabilitate youth offenders. She honed her skills to become a social engineer by earning her Bachelor's in Political Science and Communications from the University of Southern California and her Juris Doctorate and MBA from Howard University. Isis believes that resources are abundant, but too often due to routine social and economic injustice, those resources are not shared. Through the HUEMAN® Foundation she seeks to partner with those who want to find creative ways to empower, educate and ensure that all people, particularly people of color and the poor, have access to life-enriching opportunities.

Dawn Mancil – Co-Founder/Honorary Lifetime Board Member*

Dawn Mancil was born in Chicago, Illinois and graduated from Jones Commercial High School, a finishing school, which prepared students for the business world. She attended Richland Campus in Richland Center, Wisconsin majoring in English. Born with an entrepreneurial spirit, she moved to Los Angeles, California in 1974 with her six-month-old daughter, Isis, and started a typing service from home which would later become Proficiency Plus Typing/Typesetting. From 1980 to 1998 her clientele included leaders in the entertainment and legal profession.

Dawn was a legal assistant at the law offices of Irell & Manella LLP, Evan Jenness and Kendall Brill and Kelly. Dawn brought her wisdom, perseverance, strength and creative energy to the HUEMAN® Foundation.